Textile dermatitis: What to do if your clothes make you itchy or give you a rash.

If a wool sweater makes you itch, or if polyester pants give you a rash, you may have what's called textile or clothing dermatitis. It's a form of contact dermatitis. Your skin is reacting to the fibers in your clothes, or to the dyes, resins, and other chemicals used to treat what you wear. Since clothing is in close contact with your skin most of the day, it's no surprise that your shirts, pants, and undies can cause skin problems. ...
