Delta's history: From dusting crops to connecting the world | Delta News Hub

1925: Huff Daland Dusters, the predecessor of Delta, is founded in Macon, Ga., before moving to Monroe, La., a few months later. This was the first commercial agricultural flying company, and Huff Daland's 18 planes become the largest privately owned fleet in the world. Crop-dusting operations range from Florida to Arkansas, and west to California and Mexico. Later Huff Daland operates the first international mail and passenger route on the west coast of South America for Pan Am subsidiary Peruvian Airways. 1929: Delta operates ...

Berkshire sells entire stakes in U.S. airlines: Buffett

(Reuters) - Berkshire Hathaway Inc sold its entire stakes in the four largest U.S. airlines in April, Chairman Warren Buffett said Saturday at the company's annual meeting, saying "the world has changed" for the aviation industry. The conglomerate had held sizeable positions in the airlines, including an 11% stake in Delta Air Lines , 10% of American Airlines Co , 10% of Southwest Airlines Co and 9% of United Airlines at the end of 2019, according to ...

Southwest now tied with JetBlue for most slots at Long Beach Airport; Delta, Hawaiian expand – Orange County Register

JetBlue has surrendered even more of its flight slots at the Long Beach Airport — and Southwest Airlines, Delta Air Lines and Hawaiian Airlines have all benefited from that decision. JetBlue, which has historically held more flight slots at the airport than any other airline, gave up seven flight slots in January. Southwest and Delta have each received three of those flight slots, and Hawaiian Airlines was awarded one of them, according to a memo that Long Beach Airport director ...

United, Delta reach agreement with US Treasury on COVID-19 bailout - Business Insider

The coronavirus bailout package contains two provisions for aid to the airline industry, split into two $25 billion funds for passenger airlines: payroll grants, essentially aid for airline workers paid through their employers, and loans, which are intended to help inject liquidity into the struggling companies. Tuesday's agreement surrounded the payroll grants. The coronavirus rescue package budgeted up to $25 billion in grants for passenger airlines and $4 billion for cargo airlines. An additional $3 billion is set aside for ...

Coronavirus: changing and canceling flights amid travel restrictions - Business Insider

In perhaps one of the greatest industry downturns since 9/11, a sharp reduction in travel demand caused by the spread of COVID-19 compounded by President Donald Trump's travel restrictions between the US and Europe has resulted in an influx of consumers wanting to change or cancel their travel plans. A note by Cowen to clients stated that the airline industry has seen more cancellations than bookings after the desire to stay home and ride out the pandemic continues to grow. ...
